

Do you care about responsible drinking and preventing sexual violence?

The Ottawa Rape Crisis Centre is looking for youth to help design a sexual violence public education campaign for its Building Prevention Project.

We are looking for 12 young people to get involved from Ottawa's diverse communities (i.e., high schools, universities, colleges, street involved, youth of colour, Aboriginal youth, LGBTIQQ2S, youth with disabilities).

The campaign will be launched in May 2012 (Sexual Assault Awareness Month).

This is an opportunity for you to develop leadership skills and bring your creativity to the project. We ask that you commit to attending two 3-hour meetings, one in February and one in March.
